

Swarup K. Mahapatra is presently working as a Professor, School of Mechanical Sciences, Indian Institute of Technology Bhubaneswar, India. He was the Head of School of Mechanical Sciences, IIT Bhubaneswar during 2009-2016. At IIT Bhubaneswar, he was the Dean(Students affairs) during Dec,2010-Jun,2016. He is presently holding the administrative positions such as Dean(Continuing education) and Dean (Alumni affairs & International Relations) at IIT Bhubaneswar. He has 27 years of teaching and research experience. He is involved in many research projects. His research interests are Computational Fluid Dynamics, Conjugate Heat Transfer and Radiative Heat Transfer Modeling. Currently, he is working on the development of Mathematical model for Transient Radiative Heat Transfer for its application in the field of Bio-Heat Transfer. He has also organized many conferences and short term courses in his field of research.

