

Partho Datta

Associate Professor, Department of History,
Zakir Husain Evening College, University of Delhi.

“His research fellowship helped him publishing a monograph on the planning of colonial Calcutta keeping the comparative perspective with Canadian cities in mind”

Dr. Partho is currently Associate Professor in Zakir Husain Evening College, University of Delhi. He was awarded the Faculty Research Fellowship in 1999 and spent a month at Queen’s University, School of Urban and Regional Planning.

His research work was on “the planning history of Ottawa and Calcutta: two important colonial metropolises”. His research fellowship helped him publishing a monograph on the planning of colonial Calcutta keeping the comparative perspective with Canadian cities in mind. A book titled as “Planning the City, Urbanization and Reform in Calcutta c.1800-c.1940 was published in 2012 by Tulika Books. The book has been widely reviewed and the reviews appeared in Annales (France), Journal of Asian Studies (USA), Indian Economic and Social History Review (India), Economic and Political Weekly (India), Social Scientist (India).

